Madonna is rumored to have one at home, as is Sharon Stone. Now the Perfector, London's hottest beauty fix, is taking America by storm. It's non-invasive and takes no longer than 10-15 minutes per session to show a difference in your skin. The wands use electromagnetic currents that lift up the skin and diminish lines. Maria Hanson, the "it" girl and model in the '80s who became a national headline when a neighbor slashed her face with razor blades has found some serious comfort in the Perfector. She tells LRM: "It's amazing. It has totally helped my face and I can see some of the scars have smoothed out."
